About this Event

Due to an overwhelming response to our virtual platform and Parallel Event application, you can now register as a NGO CSW65 Virtual Forum Advocate for free!

While we still appreciate donations of $25 or $50 to help us run our office and cover our expenses for the Forum, you now longer have to pay to register as an Advocate on our virtual platform.

Register as an Advocate via Eventbrite

PARALLEL EVENT

Combating all Forms of Violence Against Women: Turkey Case

Esra Aydin

Cemre Ulker
The Journalists and Writers
Foundation
UN Representative

🕒 12:00 PM - 1:30 PM EDT on Thursday, 18 March

Sponsoring Organization: Set Them Free

Since the last decade, there has been a dramatic increase in violence against women in all forms: physical, emotional, economic and social. Domestic violence and femicide have risen to highest numbers in Turkey. Dissident women, especially in civil society, media and judiciary, who are promoting human rights and raising awareness on the oppressive government policies, have been facing violence in different forms. Many women leaders in the Turkish society are being arbitrarily arrested and discriminated against based on their political opinion, culture and ethnicity.

In this panel session, while informing the audience on the latest status quo against women in civil and political space, we would like to discuss how could this violence be combatted and a peaceful society with women`s meaningful participation in every sphere of life can be re-established.
